

Steps to getting started in HAM radio

1. Register at <https://hamstudy.org> This site has all of the questions that you will see on the exams and several different ways to study them. There is also a downloadable app for IOS for $3.00.

Choose an exam to study for:

- Technician (2018 - 2022)
- General (Starts July, 2019)
- Amateur Extra (2016-2020)
- Other... ▾

2. Go through the Dave Casler videos at <https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PL07A7D1C9D7BF7F48> I suggest that you go through these BEFORE you study the appropriate sections at hamstudy. This will introduce you to the concepts that the questions cover.

3. Study the technician questions. I prefer to use the “Study Mode”

5. When you consistently pass the practice exams, you need to apply for a FCC Registration Number (FRN). To do this you go to <https://apps.fcc.gov/coresWeb/publicHome.do> and Register.

6. When you receive your FRN, you can register for the test. Go to <https://hamstudy.org> to find a test location and to schedule the test.

Put in your zip code and select a date/time to schedule the test.

7. Select the registration button and follow the prompts.
